

Qualitative Expertise at Southampton (QUEST)

Seminar discussion series 2013/14

The QUEST series of seminar discussions brings together expert practitioners of qualitative methods based within and outside of the University of Southampton, to discuss and explore methodological approaches. Experienced and new researchers from within and outside of the University are welcome. QUEST promotes the development, application and teaching of qualitative methods.

The seminars are led by two speakers presenting and discussing the different or variant ways in which they use a methodological approach, and its affordances, advantages and disadvantages. The format will be presentations, responses and general discussion.

Participatory Research Methods, Weds 9 October 2013, 1.00-3.00 pm

Room 58/1023 Lecture Room G, Building 58 (Murray Building), University of Southampton

Speakers: Melanie Nind (Professor of Education, Southampton) and Alison Clark (Senior Lecturer in Childhood Studies, The Open University)

Ethnography, Weds 11 December 2013, 1.00-3.00 pm

Room 58/1023 Lecture Room G, Building 58 (Murray Building), University of Southampton

Speakers: Catherine Pope (Professor of Medical Sociology, Southampton) and Bella Dicks (Reader in Sociology, Cardiff)

Psycho-Social Approaches to Research, Weds 22 January 2014, 1.00-3.00 pm

Room 44/1057, Lecture Theatre B, Building 44 (Shackleton Building), University of Southampton

Speakers: Gillian Ruch (Senior Lecturer in Social Work, Southampton) and Andrew Cooper (Professor of Social Work, Tavistock)

The presentations will be recorded and posted up on the QUEST website <https://www.quest.soton.ac.uk/training/>

Registration: The seminars start with lunch and attendance is free. If you would like to attend, please book your free ticket in <http://ncrm.eventbrite.co.uk/>

Seminars sponsored by the National Centre for Research Methods